

2020-01-SCATTERED THOUGHTS: Resolutions.

All great bloggers write about their Resolutions: ignoring this requirement, I will write about my one and only Resolution this year [2020].

It [the Resolution] came about because of a beginner-type computer error in 2019. My error was pointed out and I promised to do better in the future. I felt so badly [honest] that I made it a Resolution for 2020.

To carry out the Resolution required none or very little physical skill, and the mental energy expended was almost nil. But still...

Around New Year's Day, 2020, I carried out the usual 'start and middle of month' exercise of sending off my blogs; the requirements related to properly addressing the email I send. Seven categories all initiated with the press of the mouse.

Off the emails go and I suddenly have a premonition I am up that creek without the proverbial paddle. "No one will notice", think I, hopefully. Several days go by when I received an email from a former Grenadier Guards' friend and his wife that seemed suspicious. My friend confirmed it...and he said,"By the way"... Do you know you should use bcc when.... and he clearly outlined my error and some of the possible consequences. [Head hung in shame, a regular lance sergeant 'disciplined' by a National Serviceman guardsman] You may wonder how I/we can speak as in the present tense? Once a Grenadier, always a Grenadier.

I immediately confessed to my error... and admitted I was at his mercy...which probably means lunch out on me when he comes to Edmonton later this year.

There, I have confessed and apologize to those that know!... to what, well, if you know of what I speak you will know..if you don't recognize my failure... I shall cease right now!
